

MASTER ON THE PREVENTION OF OCCUPATIONAL RISKS

Law 31/1995 on the Prevention of Occupational Risks urged universities to accept specialized training for the exercise of Higher Level Functions. Thus, the interuniversity master's degree that is given qualifies for the exercise of Senior Technician in Occupational Risk Prevention (Royal Decree 39/1997)

With this master's degree, the student acquires as specific competences of the degree:

- Knowledge of the historical evolution and the different conceptions of work-related health problems
- Understanding of the importance of occupational risk prevention programmes.
- Knowledge of the necessary tools for the planning and management of risk prevention programs.

Specific professional skills are also highlighted:

- Acquisition of specific skills to promote the improvement of working conditions.
- Ability to design an occupational epidemiological study.
- Ability to control the correct application of prevention in the company.

Entry profile

It is aimed at students who have an official university degree and wish to direct their professional future towards the field of occupational risk prevention.

Career opportunities

By studying the master's degree, the student will acquire the necessary knowledge to practice efficiently the profession of ORP Technician. The main job opportunities in which this training can be derived are:

- Technician of a Prevention Society or of an External, Own or Joint Prevention Service.
- In consulting firms specialized in prevention, performing advisory tasks, accident reconstruction or designing health and safety plans in construction sites, among others.
- Worker in the Public Administration in the corps of prevention technicians.
- Prevention trainer
- Creating your own prevention service
- Researcher in research centers, developing R+D as improvement of working conditions
- Managing the prevention of a medium or large company

The Polytechnic University of Cartagena participates in this master's degree. Faculty of Business Sciences. C/Real, 3. 30201 Cartagena (Murcia)